The Power of Community

We created NewBernNow.com and this Ledger as a place for you to share your stories and do-it-yourself ideas hoping that together, we could help others. It's also a virtual home for us to learn about community events and the latest happenings in the Greater New Bern area.

By learning about local resources, people can get help or volunteer for local non-profits and support local businesses!

To us, it's all about improving our community by increasing awareness of what's happening around town.

Together, our efforts may ultimately improve our economic development and attract visitors to New Bern. Are you wondering how? Social media platforms (like Facebook, Twitter, and many others) have given each one of us a voice that wasn't imaginable 10 years ago. The more we tell our family, friends, and acquaintances about the Greater New Bern area, it increases the chances that they will visit or even tell their friends about our town.

You can make a difference! Tell your story, or let us know what information is lacking and we will do our best to make improvements.

When visitors enjoy themselves, they're likely to tell others about their positive experiences. Who knows, a national magazine or media outlet may do a human interest story about our charming and bustling town.

Your opinion matters to us! Please let us know about the positive happenings around town by calling 252-638-6858 or sending us an email:
info@newbernnow.com.

We'd like to know how we can improve our services. What topics would like to be added to the Ledger and website?

Sincerely,
Wendy Card, Owner, New Bern Now

New Bern Now hasn't gotten involved in politics until we saw all of the negative commentary about the Run-off race for New Bern's Mayor. So we decided to host the first Mayoral Run-off debate with questions from local residents in the Isaac Taylor Garden. We wanted to provide an opportunity for Aldermen Sabrina Bengel and Dana Outlaw to answer questions without patronizing their opponent. You can watch the debate on New Bern Now's Youtube Channel. Dana Outlaw is New Bern's Mayor and Sabrina Bengel continues to lead a path to bring communities together. Visit the City of New Bern's website for more information.
